Americans In Bad Shape Physically

Pannunjom, Thursday (AP)—The halt, the lame and the desperately ill streamed back to freedom today from the Red stockades of North Korea. Their condition raised a burning question why they were not released in last April's pre-armistice trade of sick and wounded prisoners.

One South Korean was dead on arrival. Another died later.

Three hundred ninety-two Allied prisoners, including 70 Americans, were in this second day of the armistice exchange.

Forty-two of the Americans and many of the South Koreans and others were sick, crippled or amputees. Some hobbled painfully down from the Communist trucks with crutches and crude canes. Some were borne on litters, their wasted bodies making light burdens for the bearers.

These men appeared in much worse condition than the 70 Americans and 330 other Allies freed yesterday by the Chinese and North Korean Reds. British POWs returned today appeared in good condition.

Some of the South Koreans looked like living skeletons.

One American Negro seemed oblivious of the whole thing. He was in a state of extreme shock. He stepped into thin air from the Communist truck and would have fallen on his face had not a hand caught him.

An Allied officer said one South Korean was dead when he was taken out of the ambulance on a stretcher and examined.

A blue Chinese blanket was pulled over the dead prisoner's head and the body was flown out in a helicopter. Cause of the death was not immediately made known.

Today's exchange worked with precision, as had that of the day before. It began on the exact stroke of 9 a.m. (8 p.m. Wednesday, EDT). The first group was cleared one hour ahead of schedule.

Fewer prisoners were demonstrative, yet some displayed fiery spirit still.

One South Korean spread his arms and coughed out painfully a curse which was roughly translated, "May the Lord damn the Communists!"

Another South Korean said that last April, when all sick and wounded were supposed to be exchanged, some South Koreans were brought south, held for a while, then returned to the northern prisons.

Why? No one could say.

In that April exchange, a number of healthy-looking men were inexplicably freed by the Reds. They said then that they left behind friends who were in much worse shape.

Among the 2,556 Chinese and Korean Reds being sent north by the Allies today there was the same show of savage defiance that has marked previous exchanges.

Some die-hards yelled and sang, ripped clothing and threw things. One American lieutenant colonel was hit in the face by a thrown boot. He had been struck yesterday with a crutch.

One of the first liberated Americans was the second cousin of Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, the man who for long months sat across from the Communists at the truce table.

In Tokyo the former senior Allied truce delegate, said joyfully, "This is something I have been waiting for for a long time and I am delighted."

In today's exchange, the Reds were to deliver 70 Americans—the same as yesterday, 250 South Koreans, 25 British, 10 Filipinos, 7 Columbians, 5 Australians and 25 Turks.

This figure was eight less than the Communists agreed to send back. There was no explanation for the disparity.

Some Of Returned Americans Too Sick, Weak To Appreciate Long-Awaited Trip To Freedom

Freedom Village, Korea (AP)—The first 70 Americans came back to freedom yesterday from the long night of Red captivity. Twenty-one of them were sick, or wounded. Some of these 21 were so far gone with tuberculosis or other diseases doctors fear they yet may die. And after all the drab and weary months of waiting for liberty.

Some wept as the drama of the first exchange of prisoners since the armistice was signed unfolded at Pannunjom and at this tent city.

Some laughed and shouted. Some were too weak even to wave. Some were listless. Some were scared unaware to the last moment that they were headed for freedom. The Communists did not tell all prisoners they were being exchanged.

Eight litter patients were brought here by helicopter. None smiled. A hospital corpsman watched sadly and remarked: "Here it is the happiest day of their lives and they are too sick to appreciate it. It's a shame."

Two litter patients, both prisoners more than two years, wanted to talk. Cpl. Richard M. Davis of Booneville, Ark., said "There's not many men left" of those captured with him.

Sgt. James Davis, Mullins, S. C., told why. He said treatment in Red camps was "pretty tough" and many of his friends starved to death early in 1951.

The stories of the men were subdued for the most part, however. The Army was soft-pedaling stories of Red treatment such as shocked the United States in the sick and wounded exchange last April.

But it could not soft-pedal Cpl. John L. Dixon of San Jose, Calif. He survived the Bataan death march in The Philippines in World War II only to turn into another after his capture in the bitter winter of 1950.

Dixon and other captives were forced to march 200 miles in a month from Seoul to a prison camp on the Yalu River border with Manchuria.

"Some men died," he said. "North Koreans who guarded us threatened to kill anyone who dropped out of the line of march, so we helped or carried our buddies who had frostbitten feet or who otherwise were unable to walk."

"I remember how one of my buddies died. He fell on the ice while we were crossing a frozen river. A guard began punching him with a rifle ordering him to get up. I came up and felt his pulse. He was dead."

Dixon said the men were fed a starvation diet of cracked corn and millet, and at first the food was little better at the camp.

Despite the rigors of the long captivity, the chief psychiatrist at Freedom Village found "only one psychotic case" and observed this was "a very low percentage."

Capt. James A. Cox, the psychiatrist, said the men were "a little bit flat—that is, indifferent." He attributed this to a lack of physical stamina.

Doctors, however, showed great concern over the physical condition of the 21 U. S. sick prisoners who came home the first day.

"Most of these cases will require long hospitalization before recovery and I am not sure they will all recover," said Col. Fred W. Seymour, head of the Freedom Village hospital.

"Judging from tuberculosis cases in general which have advanced to this stage, I cannot believe that all will permanently recover."

This was in sharp contrast to the 2,400 North Korean and Chinese Communists returned to the Reds Wednesday.

More than 2,000 of the healthy Red prisoners sang, waved flags, tore their uniforms and cursed their captors.

Allentown Soldier On Second POW Exchange List

Munsan, Thursday, (AP)—The United Nations Command announced the official master list of American war prisoners freed in today's second POW exchange, including:

Pfc. Charles B. Lex, Allentown, Pa.

Capt. Joseph J. Rytys, Drexel Hill, Pa.

Cpl. James W. Richardson, Philadelphia, Pa.

Marine Pvt. Bernard R. Hollinger, Lehigh, Pa.

Korean Reds Nearly Get Out Of Hand

Pannunjom, Thursday (AP)—Angry Korean Communist war prisoners—in a series of incidents protested by the Allies—almost got out of control today at this POW exchange point.

One North Korean POW slugged an American ambulance driver.

Others threw boots and canteens which cut the lip of an American major. Another U.S. major was hit in the chest with a boot.

The incidents erupted as about 150 sick and wounded North Korean prisoners were unloaded from ambulances at the Communist reception center on a hill overlooking Pannunjom.

Some wild-eyed prisoners hurled clothing at Allied correspondents standing nearby and one rushed at two newsmen with his fists clenched. A Communist guard stopped him.

The United Nations Command lodged a strong protest with Communist authorities. The gestures of defiance were obviously for propaganda purposes—staged for the benefit of Communist newsmen cameramen at the reception center.

Mass Desertions Plague Wehrmacht In East Germany

Berlin, (AP)—A new wave of mass desertions hit East Germany's Red Wehrmacht yesterday and thousands of Soviet zone railwaymen voted to sabotage the Communist blockade of American food relief.

Twenty armed soldiers and 17 People's Police escaped in West Germany.

Railwaymen in Russian-occupied Brandenburg engaged in wholesale violation of the decree against desertion. The decree against desertion travel to Berlin, allowing 40,000 to slip into the city.

The total of U. S.-financed food packages given away in 10 days reached 1,570,000. There were 125,000 handed out yesterday, about half to zonal residents and the remainder to East Berliners.

Navy's New Midget Sub May Revolutionize Sea Warfare

New York, (AP)—A retired naval commander says a new American midget submarine, powered by a top secret fuel, "may revolutionize naval strategy and tactics as we practice them today."

Vice Adm. Charles A. Lockwood Jr., Ret., who commanded the Pacific sub fleet during World War II, adds:

"After years of evaluating midget submarines and other sneak craft such as the Japanese, Germans, British and Italians used in World War II, the United States has taken the first step in designing a midget sub more deadly than any of its foreign predecessors."

Lockwood's views were expressed in an article written with Cornelius Ryan, in the Aug. 21 issue of Collier's magazine.

He said the first midget sub is in the design and development stage at the Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp. at Farmingdale, N. Y.

It is not a suicide weapon, Lockwood added, and its crew of four Navy underwater experts—so-called frogmen—will have as good a chance of survival as any other submariners.

Lockwood described the proposed midget sub as weighing only 25 tons, measuring less than 40 feet and looking like an overgrown torpedo. It will have a top speed of 10 miles an hour on the surface and 12 miles when submerged to less turbulent water.

Malenkov Submits Biggest Russian Budget In History

Moscow, (AP)—Premier Georgi M. Malenkov's government presented to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) last night the biggest budget in the history of the U. S. S. R. More than one-fifth of the half-trillion ruble budget is earmarked specifically for the armed forces.

Finance Minister Arseny Zverev told a joint session of the Supreme Soviet 1953 expenditures would be 530½ billion rubles. Of this armed forces expenditures are listed at 110,200,000,000 rubles. This would indicate a decrease of 3,600,000,000 rubles from the 1952 armed forces outlay.

The Soviet Union values the ruble at four to the dollar. This would mean in dollar equivalents a budget of 132½ billion dollars, of which more than 27½ billion dollars would be for the armed forces. This is not necessarily the whole Soviet defense budget picture, however. Western authorities say Soviet official budgetary expenditures for the military fail to include all military expenses.

Dulles Near Agreement With Rhee

Seoul, Thursday (AP)—Top aides of U.S. Secretary of State Dulles and President Syngman Rhee today were reported nearing agreement on a U.S.-Korea mutual security pact.

The two statesmen conferred at Rhee's mansion at 10 a.m. (9 p.m. EDT, Wednesday) for their second meeting in two days on vital post-armistice problems and a common course for the forthcoming Korean political conference.

Their talks already were reported to have produced considerable progress toward a security treaty and there were indications that accord would be reached before Dulles departs for Washington Saturday.

Discussion of Rhee's long-sought goal of Korean unification was by-passed in yesterday's opening conference—a session which Dulles said "went very well."

U.S. Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, accompanied Dulles to the second meeting, apparently a full-dress session.

It was the first time that Stevens, who accompanied Dulles from Washington, sat in on the talks.

Also attending the second meeting were Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, top U.S. representative to the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador to Korea Ellis O. Briggs, Assistant Secretaries Walter S. Robertson and Carl McCardle and Arthur Dean, special consultant to Dulles on the present mission.

Jag Wednesday's session, which lasted two hours, Dulles and Rhee were said to have agreed to seek the "ending of the Korean peace conference sometime in the first half of October."

They turned over to a special "working committee" of U.S. and South Korean officials the problems of negotiating details of the security pact.

Rhee had demanded the security treaty as one of his conditions for going along with the Korean armistice.

The treaty would call on the United States to come to the Aid of South Korea in the event of a new Communist attack.

Business Men Deny Sharing Tax Case Fee

Washington (AP)—Two New York business men loudly denied yesterday that a Washington lawyer cut them in on a 1948 tax case fee and house investigators declared somebody is guilty of perjury and tax evasion.

William Mayock once a lawyer said the Democratic National Committee, told a House ways and means subcommittee Tuesday he gave a $65,000 fee and out of it gave $8,750 apiece, in cash, to William Solomon and Louis Maris.

Markus said it absolutely wasn't so when the committee brought him in the witness stand yesterday. Solomon couldn't wait for questions to be finished to deny that he also got part of the fee. He called Mayock's story "a deliberate and scandalous falsehood."

"And I'll take care of it myself," he added. Asked what he meant by that, Solomon said "there are courts for that."

The upshot was that Subcommittee Chairman Kean (R-N.J.) sternly told Solomon:

"The testimony of yourself and Mr. Markus, in conflict with that of Mr. Mayock, is very disturbing because somebody is guilty of two crimes. One is perjury and the other is underestimating income tax."

Adonis Faces Deportation

Washington, (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell yesterday announced filing of a deportation order against New Jersey gambler Joe Adonis and said he will be sent back to Italy.

The order was filed by a special inquiry officer of the Immigration Service who presided at recent hearings on the proposed exclusion of Adonis.

The deportation order is based on grounds that Adonis lacked a valid passport when he last entered the United States seven years ago after a visit to Cuba.

DeHaven Family Spends Long Period Of Watchful Waiting For News About Son's Fate

A "time of anxiety" was the phrase the telegram used to describe for S/Sgt. Charles DeHaven's family the anxiety began early yesterday morning.

George DeHaven, the father, who operates a service station at 832 Main St., Stroudsburg, was first to hear the news.

A phone call—blunt and totally unexpected—came through from a regional newspaper.

The voice on the other end of the wire asked Mr. DeHaven if he had received any news about his son. Mystified, the father said he didn't know what they were talking about.

There was a rumor, the voice continued, that S/Sgt. DeHaven had been on board the RB-36 reconnaissance bomber when it crashed in flames somewhere in the Atlantic.

No confirmation of the rumor had been received, the paper said. Mr. DeHaven answered the few questions the reporter asked. When he placed the phone back in its cradle, he was still unwilling to believe the story.

Less than an hour later—the phone rang again. A long distance call from a Philadelphia newspaper.

This time, the voice said, the Air Force had confirmed the "rumor." According to an Associated Press bulletin from Travis Air Force Base in California, Charles DeHaven was listed as crew chief of the bomber. He was one of those on board when the plane crashed.

Once again the father gave the reported information. Then he called an assistant to watch the service station and went home to his wife at their farm home near Snyderdville.

By that time Charles' sister, Mrs. Richard Weaver, had heard the news on the radio. There was still no official report.

The telegram did not come until about 1 p. m. It read simply: "It is with deep regret that I officially inform you that your son, S/Sgt. Charles M. DeHaven, AF 1334997, has been missing in flight since 4 Aug. 1953 approximately 500 miles west of Scotland and 500 miles south of Iceland."

"Extensive search is now being conducted," the telegram continued. "When further information is received you will be notified immediately. A letter containing further details will be forwarded to you at the earliest possible date."

Signed by the commanding officer of Travis AFB, the message ended:

"Please accept my sincere sympathy in this time of anxiety."

From the moment the telegram arrived late into the night, the DeHavens dialed newscasts on station after station. Bit by bit information crept through from the Army and other official sources.

Four airmen had been found alive by the British freighter Manchester Shipper, first vessel to reach the scene. Two bodies were also found.

To the DeHavens it was an af-

The family of S/Sgt. Charles M. DeHaven, of Stroudsburg RD2, received word early today that the 24-year-old crew chief was one of four Air Force men rescued from the fog-shrouded icy Atlantic yesterday.

He was one of 23 airmen forced to parachute into the ocean early yesterday after their 10-engine U. S. RB-36 reconnaissance bomber caught fire off the British Isles.

The fier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. DeHaven, received the following telegram from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., about 1 a.m.:

"We are very pleased to inform you that your son, S/Sgt. Charles DeHaven, who was previously reported missing, has now been returned to military control and you will hear from him directly."

S/Sgt. Charles M. DeHaven, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. DeHaven, Stroudsburg RD2, was one of 23 crewmen aboard a U. S. RB-36 reconnaissance bomber that dropped into the North Atlantic early yesterday in flames.

DeHaven was associated with his father in business for a number of years prior to his enlistment in the Air Force. He assisted in the management of the family service station at Snyderdville for six years.

He was employed for one year by Haynes Motor Co., Stroudsburg, immediately before entering service in November, 1949.

S/Sgt. DeHaven was stationed for one year in Texas following his Air Force basic training. In 1950 he was transferred to Travis Air Force Base in California, where he had been stationed since.

He attended Stroudsburg High School, leaving at the end of his sophomore year to enlist.

A London Associated Press dispatch last night said four dead half-frozen airmen had been picked up from rubber rafts in the stormy ocean after they had bailed out of their 10-engine plane.

The bodies of two other crew members were also recovered, the dispatch said.

A British freighter, the Manchester Shipper, picked up one survivor and the two bodies. Three other survivors were reported on board the 1,905-ton Manchester Pioneer. One body was aboard the French trawler Magdalen.

The plane was en route to Lakenheath Air Base in England where its crew members were to receive 30 days training.

A vast international air-sea armada raced through mounting seas to reach possible survivors. The search centered 477 miles west of Shannon, Ireland.

American search planes earlier reported sighting a raft near that point with five men aboard, four of them "waving like mad."

Rescue planes and ships circled through thick fog hanging over the icy North Atlantic.

More than 20 additional U. S. planes were poised on British airfields ready to take off at dawn to join the other units which kept up the search through the stormy night.

The search—one of the greatest in the Atlantic's history—went on in wind and rain-tem darkness. Near gales whipped waves high as a house.

The Manchester Shipper was the first of scores of ships from more than six nations to reach the crash area.

She radioed that one of the survivors was in fairly good condition, although suffering from exposure. A second was suffering shock and a damaged arm and a third was reported "badly shocked."

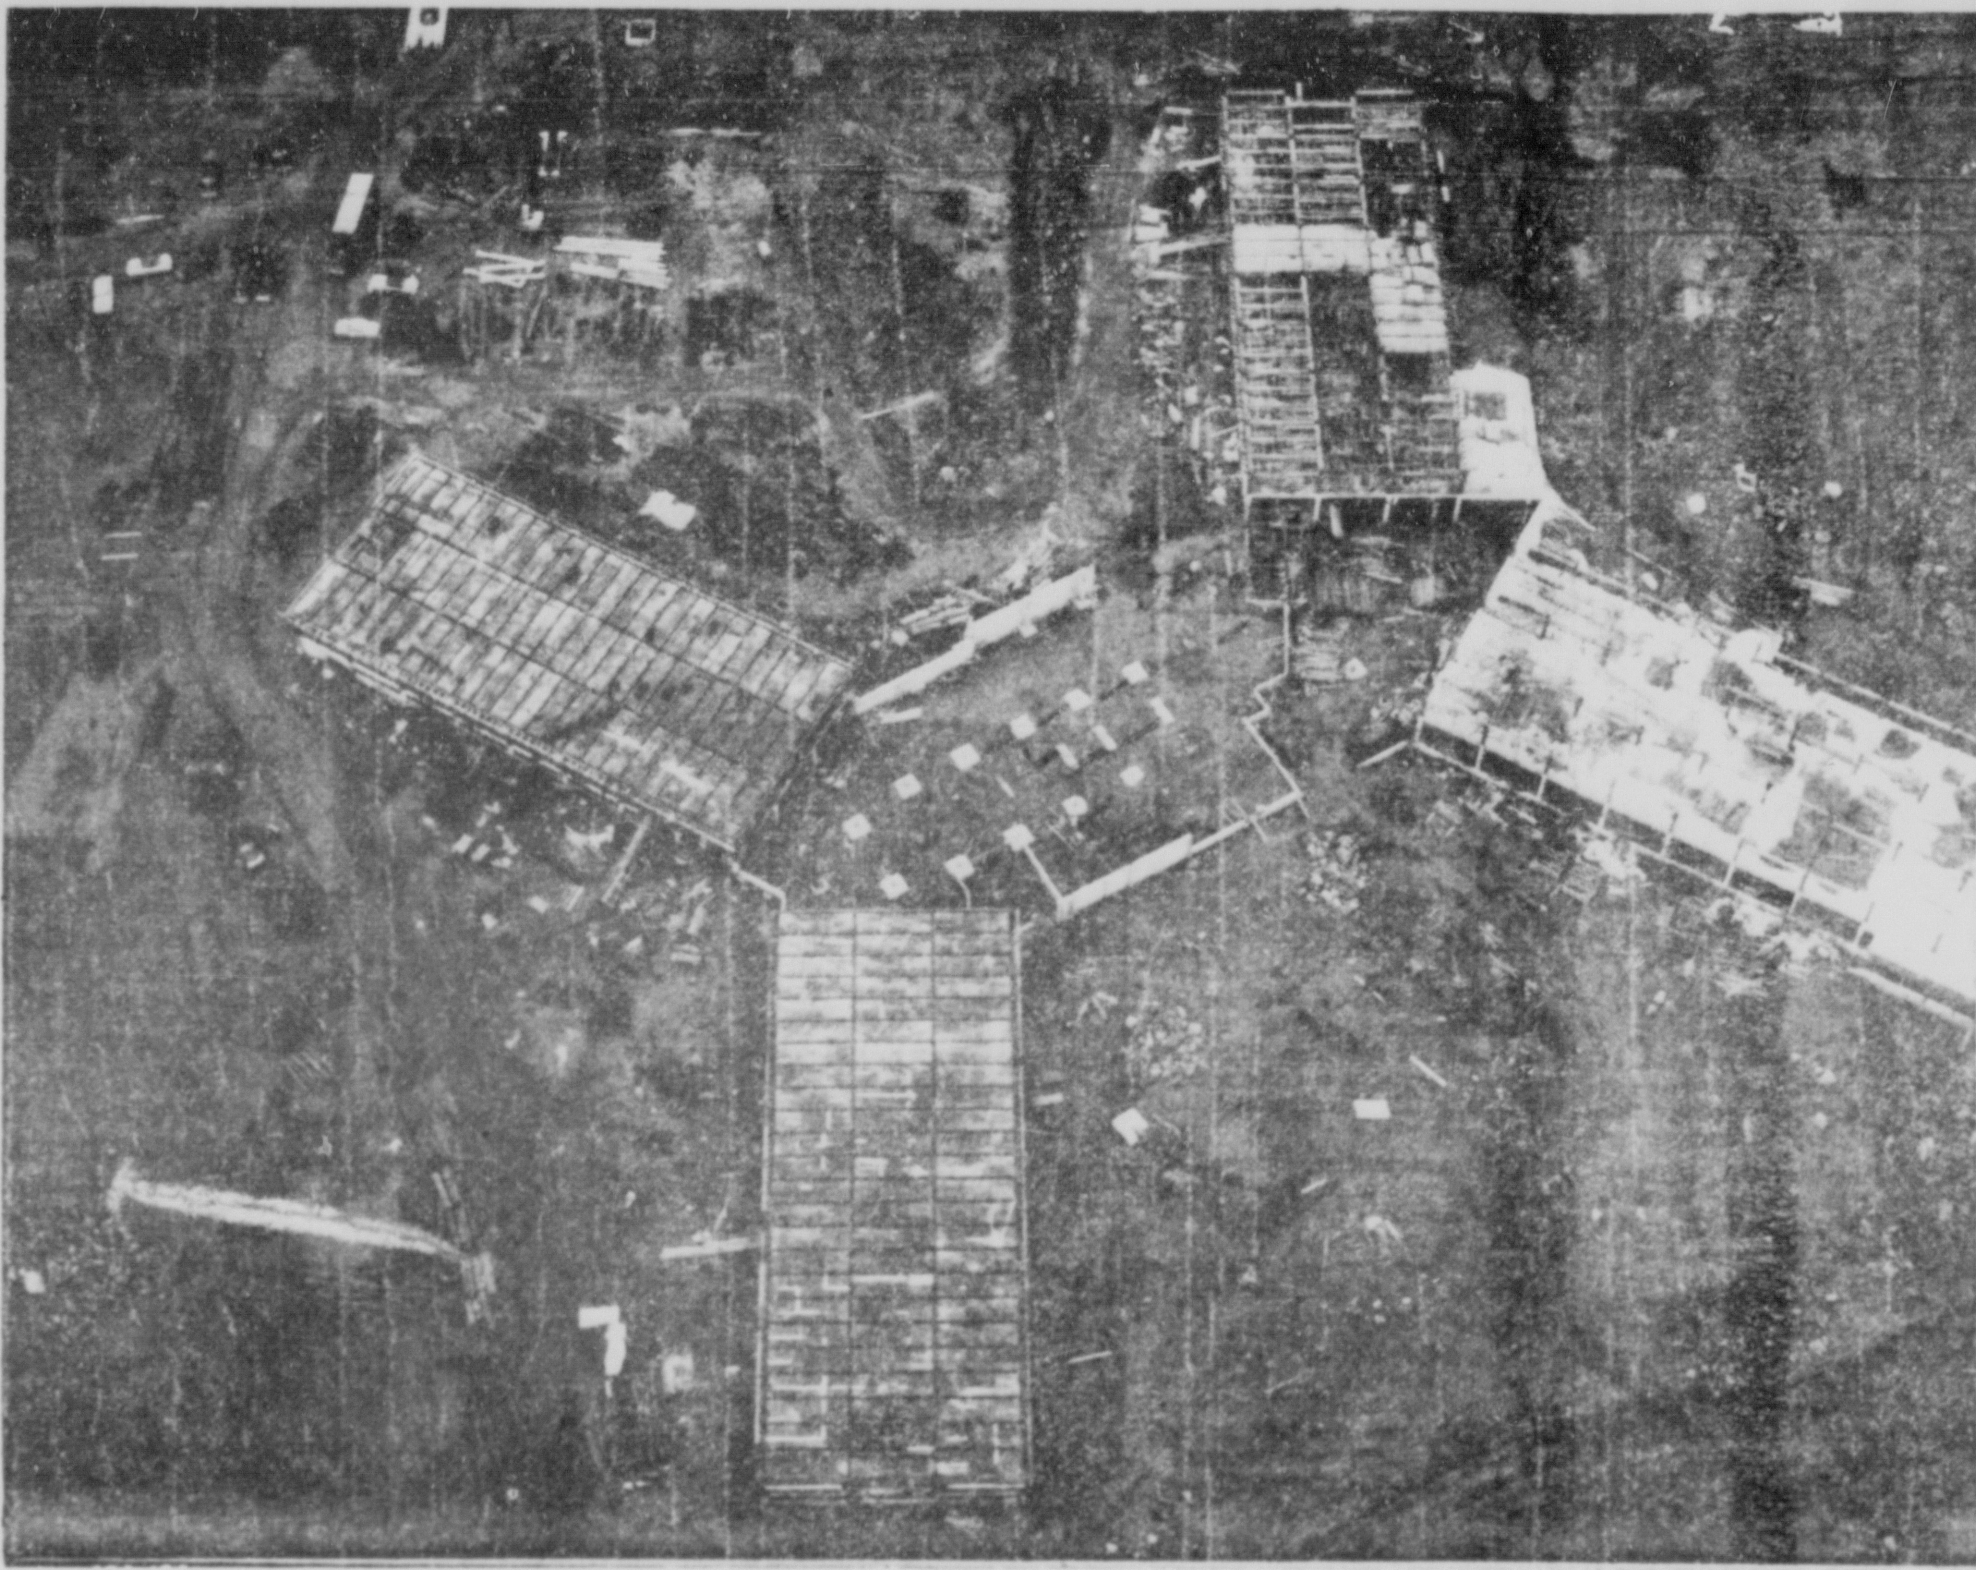

The U. S. Air Force said no names could be released yet.

The giant RB-36 bomber radioed at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday that two of its five engines on the right side were afire.

Later messages said all five right-side engines were out and the plane was losing altitude rapidly.

At 4:40 a.m. yesterday Keflavik Airfield in Iceland picked up an SOS. The only words it could hear were "bailing out."

Capt. William M. Vinyard of Independence, Mo., piloting a DC6B off Iceland said he was in contact with the stricken craft at the end. "We heard one spoken word—'Jump.' " Then the radio went dead. We knew the plane had ditched," Vinyard said.

Russia's Plan For Top-Level Talks On East-West Tensions Plays Into Hands Of U.S.

By J. M. Roberts Jr.
AP News Analyst

Soviet Russia has played right into the hands of the United States by injecting the question of a top-level conference on East-West tensions into the discussion of an agenda for a four-power ministerial meeting on Germany.

The United States already was holding the top-level conference matters in reserve as one of the cards which it might play in an attempt to secure a political settlement in Korea.

It was considered just barely possible that, having little else to offer in return for a unified Korea, an offer of a general conference, which necessarily would include Red China, might have some effect on Peiping's reluctance to give Korea back to the Koreans.

Russia's note, in reply to the Anglo-American-French proposal for a conference on Germany, is not too clear. But it seems to be suggesting that an effort be made to solve the German problem, at the same time making plans for a conference on the overall relationship between the Communist sphere and the free world.

All the Allied foreign offices were taking time to make careful studies before deciding just what Russia meant. The next move probably will be an Allied inquiry as to just what is meant.

The facts of life are that if an agreement could be reached about Germany the entire course of East-West relations would be changed. For that would represent a complete change of Russian attitude, and any remaining problems would seem insignificant in comparison. That is, they would unless it meant a Russian decision to drop their designs on Europe and concentrate for many years on the Far East.

That is not impossible. It would merely represent a return to the Communist theory of many years ago that what the communists referred to as "colonial" peoples, offered the best immediate field for Communist exploitation.

It would be a gamble on the chance that, with immediate pressures removed from a Europe which already hopes desperately for a period approaching normalcy, the West would fall into a trance which would open the door to later Communist infiltration.

In the consideration of this subject it is necessary to keep repeating that there is always the chance that the growing strength of the free world is convincing Russia that the maintenance of her sphere behind an Iron Curtain is unprofitable. The co-existence about which she has talked so often as a blind may be becoming a possibility.

It is just as necessary to keep repeating that a non-aggressive Russia would contradict not only a fixed Soviet policy, but also the fundamental attitude of pre-Soviet Russia over a period of 500 years.

But if the Soviets want a period of relative relaxation, and the conference through which it might be attained, then the United States and her allies have something for which they can extract payment.

Bridge Work Delayed Until Bypass Opens

Protests of residents living north of King St. bridge in East Stroudsburg resulted in some last-minute negotiations by East Stroudsburg Borough Council Tuesday night.

Early yesterday morning the State Highway Department consented to postpone razing of the bridge while the borough builds a temporary bypass. The bypass is expected to be opened at noon today; the old King St. bridge will be removed, and a more modern structure erected.

The hurried action followed the announcement by State Highway officials that yesterday morning all traffic would be detoured into Stroudsburg and the King St. crossing would close.

About 15 people living in what would have proved an almost isolated section, appealed to councilmen for action and efforts began immediately to hold up destruction of the bridge.

Permission to cross a section of the King Ribbon Mill property, just east of the bridge, was acquired by councilmen and yesterday tons of dirt fill were hauled to the site, a huge concrete pipe was lowered to the bottom of the stream bed and crews began to build the temporary bypass.

Located only about 30 feet east of the existing steel bridge, the bypass will allow traffic to enter the northern section of King St. while work progresses on construction of a new bridge.

The new structure, expected to be completed in about two months, will be 37 feet wide, as compared to the present bridge which is 15 feet. Length also will be increased from 34 to 46 feet, and the new deck will be two feet higher than the present road.

A five-foot-wide sidewalk also will be located on the west side of the bridge. The deck will be constructed of open steel beams and the superstructure will be of "I" beam steel and concrete construction.

Motorist Killed As Car Rams Into Parked Truck, Light Pole

Scranton Man Fatally Hurt At Portland

Portland—A 53-year-old motorist who formerly worked as a farm equipment salesman here, died in the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, at 4:25 a.m. yesterday, shortly after his car crashed into a parked truck and light standard at the northern approach to this borough.

Roy D. Dorsheimer, of 1629 Vine St., Scranton, succumbed to internal injuries according to Monroe County Coroner William E. Andrew.

Chief of Police Jesse Felker said the accident occurred at 3:20 a.m. Dorsheimer either fell asleep at the wheel of his late model car, or failed to negotiate a slight curve while entering the borough, Chief Felker said.

The car hit the tractor-trailer of David Dahman, parked at his service station, and the light standard simultaneously, crushing the left front side.

Dorsheimer was thrown into the windshield and his body crushed against the steering wheel. The victim's eyeglass frames were imbedded in the shattered glass and remained there after his body was removed from the car.

Chief Felker said he was assisted by five other men in an effort to extricate Dorsheimer's body from the mass of twisted wreckage.

General Hospital ambulance was summoned after Dr. Howard Ott gave early treatment. But the man, who was living in Columbia, N. J., died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Dorsheimer formerly was employed by Clyde Brands at his garage and farm machinery store here. He was in the employ of an Iowa firm at the time of his death. Advertising circulars from the firm were strewn around the intersection where the fatal accident occurred.

Dorsheimer's father, Theodore Dorsheimer, and sister, Mrs. Gladys Wilbur, came here yesterday morning to gain details of the accident. The body was released to the Snowden funeral home, Scranton.

Surviving, in addition to his parents and sister, are his wife, the former Mae Harrington McGuire; and a son, Roy Jr., of Nesheim Station, N. J. Private funeral services will be held at Scranton.

Eisenhower Gives Report

Washington, (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower on Tuesday described South America as a "beehive" of expanding activity, and said it needs a large volume of private capital to continue its development.

In a TV report on his recent fact-finding tour of the 10 South American nations, the President's brother said it is important that each of these nations do all it can to attract private capital, both from abroad and from inside its borders.

"Given a favorable climate for investment," he said, "private and public finance then can and should take a long-range view of the opportunities. These opportunities can assume huge proportions."

In an obvious reference to an unsuccessful attempt at this session of Congress to curb U. S. imports of Venezuelan oil, Eisenhower said:

"If we suddenly exclude products from one South American country it simply means that country will have fewer dollars and must, therefore, buy less from us. And the change in the rules may have terrifying consequences to the economy of the nation so affected."

Dr. Eisenhower undertook the 20,000-mile journey at the request of the President.

'Confessions' Shattered By Police Probing Pike Slayings

Pittsburgh, (AP)—Police shattered new leads—topped by a second confession—as fast as they developed yesterday in the hunt for the midnight murderer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

A 41-year-old man awakened a Catholic priest in the early morning hours at Philadelphia and said he shot two truck drivers through the head as they slept in their cabs alongside the super toll highway.

But relatives said he made a habit of confessing to crimes about which he read in newspapers. Police questioned him at length but said he was unable to give many important details of the killings and apparently had no connection with them. He was charged with disorderly conduct and taken to a hospital for observation.

It was the same story in Youngstown, Ohio. Police discounted the tavern boasts of a 29-year-old World War II veteran and former mental patient that he was the killer.

And in Pittsburgh, a suspicious tan 1947 Chevrolet convertible found by police with Virginia and West Virginia plates turned out to be owned by a West Virginia auto dealer.

Meanwhile, ballistic tests were made to see if Leroy Wilcox, 17-

METAL RIMS OF EYE GLASSES worn by Roy Dorsheimer, of Scranton, are imbedded in the shattered windshield of this car in which the 53-year-old man met death yesterday in Portland Borough. Dorsheimer died in the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, about an hour after the 3:20 a.m. accident. (Daily Record Photo)

$2,100 Damages Results When Station Wagon, Truck Collide

Scranton—A two-vehicle collision on Route 209 just west of here early yesterday resulted in an estimated $2,100 damages and minor injuries for the occupant of one car.

State police of the Brodheadsville station investigated the accident which occurred at 8 a.m.

Fire Jailed For Disturbing Youngsters

Five men are in East Stroudsburg jail on drunk and disorderly conduct charges after being arrested yesterday afternoon while reportedly disturbing children enroute to the borough's playground on Day St.

Chief of Police Arthur Swink, who arrested the quintet with the aid of Officer Russell Walton, said the men were "throwing beer" at children and creating nuisance.

The incidents, brought to the attention of police by the playground superintendent, occurred in a wooded area near the playground. Chief Swink said. Arrests were made at 2:50 p.m.

Confined to jail to await a hearing this morning before Justice of the Peace Marshall Neyhart were: Oscar Gallagher, 26 and Joseph Cramer, 33, both of Stroudsburg; Walter McCuskey, 50 and Bud Hellman, 23, both of East Stroudsburg; and William Kelly, 45, of Millford.

Appointment Of Authority Postponed

Stroudsburg council last night delayed appointment of members of a municipal authority until a complete roster of members accepts invitation to act as authority members.

The authority, under articles of incorporation already prepared by Attorney George T. Robinson, would be of the "general" type with all the powers and rights to operate under the full provisions of the act of assembly granting municipalities right to set up an authority.

In other words, the authority, as it will be constituted by the Borough of Stroudsburg would be able to do everything from operate a municipal utility to set up and operate parking lots.

Members of the authority, numbering five, will be appointed to from one to five-year terms.

Councilmen had previously suggested five names, but their appointment was withheld until full acceptance was obtained from each of the prospective members.

Failure of one of the prospective members to render such a clear-cut decision in time for action last night caused a postponement in councilmanic action to name a full authority and act on articles of incorporation.

Man Arrested For Breaking House Window

Mount Pocono State police arrested a Throop man for disorderly conduct early yesterday after he allegedly broke a window from outside Miss Ruth Thomas' residence here.

Arrested shortly after midnight Tuesday, Julius J. Balassa, 27, a technician, spent the night at the county jail in Stroudsburg.

He was taken for hearing before Justice of the Peace William N. Walton, Stroudsburg, fined $10. Police said arrangements for restitution had been made.

Girl Struck On Forehead

A New York City girl who was struck on the forehead with a ping-pong paddle was among five persons treated Tuesday for minor injuries in the General Hospital dispensary, East Stroudsburg.

The injured ping-pong player, Rochelle Falagari, was treated for forehead laceration. Others treated were Harry Harrison, East Stroudsburg RD 3, an employee of Kulp Foundry, Stroudsburg, who bruised his right arm when a machine crank struck him.

Sam Kline, 14, of Bushkill, suffered scalp lacerations when he struck his head on a door frame. Julie Every, Philadelphia, a guest at Camp Akiba, suffered fracture of the right small finger when struck by a softball.

Scott Surfing, 2, of Eagle Mask Farm, Delaware, N. J., fell, fracturing his left collarbone.

Council Moves To Set Up Sewage Plant Bond Issue

Stroudsburg Council last night moved to set up the bond issue required to construct sanitary sewers in West Stroudsburg and enlarge and modernize the present sewage treatment works to meet modern operational and capacity standards.

Attorney George T. Robinson, solicitor, has already conferred with the Department of Internal Affairs on steps leading up to state approval of the bond issue. He said this operation covers a maximum of 20 days.

Grant Snyder, Former County Resident, Dies

Chester, Pa.—Grant Snyder, 53, of Mountaintop, died at 11:30 a.m. yesterday in the Crozier Hospital here. He was a resident of Springfield, Pa., and was stricken suddenly with a heart attack.

Mr. Snyder was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder, Mountaintop.

He formerly owned and operated the Log Cabin restaurant in Mountaintop. Mr. Snyder left Barrett Township, Monroe County, two years ago to make his home in Springfield.

Mr. Snyder was a member of J. Simpson Africa Lodge, F. & A. M. and Irem Temple Shrine.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Hattie Stevens Snyder; two daughters, Mrs. John Reisensitz and Mrs. Cornelius Vrolijk, both Mountaintop; son, Blake Snyder, Florida; three sisters, Mrs. Ann Christian and Mrs. Cliff Bell, both Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Harvey Trump, Allentown; brother, Luther Snyder, Bath.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in Lanterman funeral home. Rev. William J. Wunder will officiate. Interment is to be made in Laurelwood Cemetery, Stroudsburg.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday. Masonic services will be conducted at 8 p.m.

Estimated cost of West Stroudsburg sewers is around $72,000. Cost of treatment works improvement will be about $110,000.

A bill authorizing allocation of $55,000 towards plant improvements awaits Gov. Pine's signature in Harrisburg. Remainder of the monies would be covered by the bond issue.

Advertising for bids was postponed last night to permit Mr. Robinson to proceed with setting up the bond issue and to allow borough officials to set up the payment of the $55,000 from the state.

Councilman Edward Doran made a motion that police patrolmen be increased from $2,900 a year to $3,300 a year. The motion was not seconded.

An ordinance covering collection of garbage by commercial collectors, first move towards taking the borough out of municipal collection, was adopted.

Commercial collectors will be invited to a special meeting of council around September 15 when provisions of the ordinance and other matters will be discussed.

Briefly, the ordinance requires collection once a week from November 1 to April 30 and twice a week collections from May 1 through October 30.

Tax Collector Jack Kitchen and Chief Assessor George Smith proposed that council set up a system whereby persons who move are required to obtain a permit for removal of personal property.

The system is used in New Jersey.

VFW Sets Up Blood Drive Organization

Thomas Lambert Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars is preparing to raise 200 pints of blood in the next two months to augment the supply needed by Monroe County's Red Cross chapter.

Howard Mount, chairman for the VFW drive-campaign, docked last night his committee met with Leroy Miley, blood bank chairman, this week to set dates for the drive of the Western-Bureau blood drive unit.

First drive will occur Thursday, August 21 and the second drive is Tuesday, Sept. 22.

Mount said every effort will be made to enlist the support of area campers and area residents of the Monroe section. He noted that in the past, the drive has been successful in the past, but that emphasis on the first drive will be to get people from outside the county who receive blood free at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

Several months ago, 100 pints of blood were contributed to the drive. After an appeal by Miley, it was again explained that in the past, the drive has been successful in the past, but that emphasis on the first drive will be to get people from outside the county who receive blood free at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

But since the supply is being tapped steadily and in increasing amounts, the bank must be replenished, and the call to campers and others living outside Monroe County has been issued.

Working as co-chairmen, with Mount on the double-barreled campaign which will find volunteers reporting to the VFW Home in Stroudsburg, are George Straka and Edward Tweed. Also assisting are Lawrence Sawford, Victor Mumm, Franklin Weiler, John Egan, Edward Palmer, George Wagner, Landon Cooke, Thomas Shiller and Larry Zaewara.

Sales Tax Experts Confer With Building Contractors

Harrisburg, (P.)—Revenue Department experts conferred with building contractors and manufacturers yesterday on possible sales tax regulations that would affect their industry.

Revenue Secretary Otto F. Meender said "nothing conclusive" was decided at the session, one of a series called to provide the groundwork for laying out regulations on exemptions from the one per cent levy when it goes into effect Sept. 1.

The sale of homes or other buildings are exempt from the sales tax since such sales are subject to the one per cent real estate transfer tax.

The question at hand, Meender said, was the extent that materials which go into the building of a new home are subject to the levy.

"It's not official yet, but it seems that anything sold at retail (apart from the specific exemptions in the law itself) in the building industry would be subject to the sales tax," he said.

Contractors often buy materials in wholesale lots, but remain the final consumer in building those materials into houses, he added.

Bill Provides State Aid For Sewage Plants

Harrisburg, (P.)—A plan to allocate two million dollars in state aid for sewage treatment plants may be the shot in the arm needed to spur lagging municipalities.

The viewpoint was expressed yesterday by Dr. Russell E. Teague, health secretary and chairman of the Sanitary Water Board, in presenting that Gov. John S. Fine will sign the appropriation.

"It should provide an incentive to some communities to go ahead with their projects," he told a newsmen.

The 1953 Legislature approved the appropriation, now awaiting Fine's action, to make annual grants to municipalities to pay up to 2 per cent of the cost of sewage treatment works.

The communities would be allowed to use the money for maintenance, repairs, replacement and other costs in operating a sewage treatment plant.

"Should those grants-in-aid be continued by future legislatures," Teague said, "it's possible that the state could completely finance the cost of local sewage treatment plants over a period of 50 years."

Some 100 million dollars in sewage treatment plants have been constructed since the clean streams law went into effect in 1937.

Teague estimated that 100 million dollars in additional projects remain to be built. This would be principally among municipalities who have felt the hard pinch of local financing.

The governor pushed for passage of the two million dollar grant to fulfill his promise that communities should not bear the entire financial load of stream clean-up.

"The bill itself spells out Fine's thinking on this point."

"The responsibility to preserve and improve the purity of the waters of the commonwealth does not rest solely upon municipal government but is also a function and responsibility of state government acting in the interest of general public health."

Only municipalities which have set up state-approved sewage treatment works since 1937 would be eligible for the grants.

THIS POSTMAN RINGS JUST ONCE

THIS STORY is especially for those weary city mailmen who have to walk miles each day to deliver their bags of letters and packages. How would you boys like to swap jobs with W. Donald Burnap, whose route covers the first, second, third and fourth lakes region in New York's central Adirondacks? Well, first of all, Burnap doesn't get tired feet. He delivers and collects his mail in a 50-foot boat. Beats walking, eh? Not only that, but there's no stalling around when the mailman arrives. The campers and hunters must be on the dock when he wheels by on his twice-a-day trip.

Capt. Burnap swings the boat close to the dock and an assistant hands over the mail and picks up an empty mail bag at the same time. Anyone who isn't quick enough to catch his mail may have to jump in the water after it. This happens about 10 per cent of the time. Capt. Burnap remembers the time that 20 boys at a YMCA camp were waiting for letters from home. When the mailman gave the sack to one of the boys, he dropped it and 20 young swimmers leaped in after it. Capt. Burnap has been making this 35-mile trip for some 20 odd years. Wonder where he goes on vacation?

Mailman gets some empty bags to fill with packages for trip.

As motorboat slows down near the dock, he holds out letters.

This is hit-or-miss operation and no one gets a second chance for his mail.

The trip over, the mail goes to post office.

Handicapped Individuals Rehabilitated

A large number of disabled Pennsylvania citizens, including many from this region of the state, who required rehabilitative services so they could accept gainful employment were referred to the State Bureau of Rehabilitation during the past fiscal year, it was reported yesterday.

During the 1952-53 twelve month period 8,713 new cases were reported to the bureau from throughout the State, including 1,517 in the Wilkes-Barre District, according to Tom E. Williams, district manager.

On a state-wide basis the most encouraging trend was the increased number of handicapped individuals who came from cooperating agencies in allied fields.

Many of the agencies who referred cases to the bureau generally are informed promptly of persons whose disabilities will handicap them permanently, he added.

This is especially important because if injured persons are referred to the bureau as soon as possible after the disablement occurs, rehabilitation can be started immediately when there is more likelihood it will culminate in success. These agencies include health organizations, hospitals, clinics, doctors, crippled child societies, schools and sanatoria.

In explaining eligibility for the bureau's services, Williams said that any handicapped individual, 16 years of age or over and a resident of Pennsylvania, who has a disability which constitutes an employment handicap, can apply for rehabilitation.

Residents who sustain disability through injury, accident, congenital causes, or disease, may be considered eligible provided they can be made employable.

It was pointed out by Williams that these disabled persons can be rehabilitated and placed into gainful jobs at considerably less cost than required to maintain them on public assistance rolls for one year. Last year alone through rehabilitation 691 cases were removed from the Commonwealth's public assistance rolls. It cost the commonwealth $1,194 to maintain each one of these 691 cases on relief rolls for only one year while the expenditure was only $224 each to rehabilitate and place them in gainful jobs.

BILL BURNS here puts to test his theory one hungry kid can out-eat three and three-fifths adults!

Success Greets Chicagoan Who Learned How To Serve Hot Dogs, Cold Drinks Just Right

By Lucia Perrigo

Central Press Correspondent

Chicago — The stocky American with a crew cut and inquisitive brown eyes stood in the middle of Rome's Coliseum, half heard the guide drone on something about "2,000 years old and seats 60,000," gazed about the great ruin, and gave forth with:

"Gosh what a horde of hot dogs a fellow could sell in here!"

This bright boy with an eye to business is William Burns, the graduate lawyer and former agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation who today is Chicago's absolute authority on that All American phenomenon, the hot dog.

As head of Consolidated Concessions, which caters to the peanut, popcorn, cold soft drinks and hot dog appetite of millions who pour into Soldier Field, the public beaches and parks, he's a boy who really knows how to put on the dog-hot, that is.

For 100 days of the year he gleefully watches America stuff itself, but that gleam in his Irish eye come not just from the knowledge that coins are cawing into the till, but that his product has achieved that paradox of the drink being cold and the food being hot, virtually an unheard of situation at a large sporting event.

It came about this way. The only son of a railroad switchman, Burns got his law degree at the University of Illinois—he still spends 40 per cent of his time practicing—worked for four years for the FBI before enlisting in the Navy, then went to work for the house of ushers.

Accompanying Frain to major sporting events around the country such as the Kentucky Derby, the All-Star games, and such indoor sports as the national political conventions, Burns came to a unique conclusion—refreshment selling should be put on an up-to-the-minute business basis.

From here on in, the Big Three to him was to mean, not the most powerful western powers, but hot dogs, pop and ice cream bars, which account for 95 per cent of all sales in stadiums.

With his partners, he began studying blue prints of stadiums, layouts, books on mass psychology to figure out a way to beat the problems presented by the world's largest stadium, Chicago's Soldier Field, which has been known to sardine 110,000 spectators into its oblong, columned confines.

"Our problem was mobility,"

Burns explained. "We wanted to take the products to the people instead of having vendors carry small quantities of foodstuffs and then lose precious time returning to a remote kitchen for added supplies."

"We didn't want to treat the crowds as a captive audience, but as satisfied purchasers who would repeat. We fight time and fatigue. We're only in business 80 minutes a day, 100 days a year and it's the fastest business on earth and a gamble with weather and temperament."

BURNS explains: "A man who carries a case of soft drinks is totting 37½ pounds and when the bottles are empty he still has 75 per cent of the weight. We send a man out with 50 drinks in paper cups and he can 're-fuel' at many decentralized food stations. Soft drinks are piped to various parts of the stadium through coils."

"Coffee goes out in 10-gallon drums. We've created special mobile units that will roll refreshments around by the hundreds, including the 460-drink wagon we have stationed at Buckingham fountain."

Speaking of fountains, Burns insists that the 48 water fountains in Soldier Field be spouting at all times, free and accessible.

He will call in 70 to 450 vendors, depending upon the event and the age of the crowd.

"Look," says Burns, "25,000 bottomless kids will out-eat 85,000 adults and a baseball fan eats more than any other sport spectator because he's a good customer for soft drinks. Football fans are principally hot dog and coffee customers."

Different amusements bring out different crowds and it is up to Burns to determine the market. No wonder he's a bug on statistics. He insists, "I'm in business with the weather."

His favorite day is a sunny one with the temperature in the eighties. "They eat everything then," he explains. "However, let the wind shift and the mercury slide and so do sales on ice cream."

For this reason, Burns gets hourly reports from the weather bureau and checks as often with the airport for reports on storms. If a cold wind is blowing in he gives out the order to shift from "wet items" of ice cream and soft drinks to "dry items" like peanuts and hot dogs, thus cutting the cost in kitchen losses.

Last winter he hustled through 10 European countries and 70 cities, visiting the great stadiums of recent and ancient history. He saw them all, from the great German arenas to the late Benito Mussolini's impressive marble structure, but it was the Roman Coliseum that stunned him. He kept comparing its 80 entrances and exits to Soldier Field's 49.

"You know, that stadium had everything," he enthuses. "Built with slave labor, it even had locker rooms for contestants under the field, which at times was flooded for water sports. Like Notre Dame's stadium at South Bend, it was built strictly for the spectator. There isn't a bad seat in the house."

"The only thing I'd change about it would be to substitute ramps for stairs," says Bill. "They rise five stories high and at a terrific angle. They 'scaled the house' by selling seats according to chips of ivory, brass and lead with the lead buyers in the top row."

"On hot days they would roll out an awning to cover the emperor and his party. As for concessions, everyone probably brought his own bread, and bottle of wine."

Quarrying Burns as to the eating habits of Europeans at public events, he stated that continental crowds prefer a sausage on a bun as long as a loaf of French bread which they buy for approximately 25 cents. This goes even for the Folies Bergere, but the American soft drink is the prime favorite.

Does he cook at home in the apartment he shares with his mother? Not on your life! He can't look a dirty dish in the face, sort of an emotional hang-over from the 700 he washed every day for his board at the University of Illinois.

How come he is a bachelor? At 34, he explains ruefully, "I've never had time to court a girl. When everyone else is playing, we're working."

Death Penalty For Patskin Is Reinstated

Seranton, (AP)—Lackawanna County Court yesterday reinstated the death penalty for William Patskin, 46, Jefferson Township wife-slayer whose scheduled execution last April was held up for a sanity test.

The court split 2-1 on the ruling with Judges M. J. Eagen and Otto P. Robinson joining in the majority opinion that Patskin was "raving insanity" in order to escape the electric chair.

Judge T. Lewis Hoban rejected his colleagues' view and recommended that Patskin be committed to Farview State Hospital for the Criminal Insane "until such time as he may be found sane within the meaning of the law."

Yesterday's decision means that Gov. John S. Fine will be asked to set a new date for Patskin's electrocution at Rockview Penitentiary. He was originally scheduled to die April 13.

It was the second time within three days that the court has split with a man's life at stake. Last Monday the judges voted 2-1 to sentence Walter Stepper, 29, Seranton wife slayer, to life imprisonment after all had fixed the degree of his crime at first degree murder.

The ceremony was performed Saturday, Aug. 1, at 2 p. m., by Rev. William H. Brong, uncle of the bride.

The church was attractively decorated with bouquets of gladioli, poms, and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Victor Koehler furnished suitable nuptial music before and during the ceremony. The soloist, Larry Reagen, was heard in the numbers "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Any Ellenberger is one girl who can keep you in stitches figuratively at least. And her department has a Nution that's designed to make home sewing much, much easier and far more professional. It's called a Magic Stitcher and is a rocket shaped plastic gimmick that pulls apart to reveal a needle so long it might double as a weapon when it isn't hemming, basting, or quilting.

Enclosed in the box, which is tagged $2.95, is a book with diagrams and such technical names as lock screw, tension clip, spool compartment, thread snip, needle protector, etc. On the ensuing pages there are more diagrams and explanations as to how you begin sewing, how you fasten your thread, various ways to baste or finish a hem, as well as chain stitch, quilt and overcast. It's quite an intriguing book—and, if you continue on, you see that the Magic Stitcher also makes it possible to tailor tack, applique, shirt and smock.

There is also some talk about "tension" . . . but Any points out that this is something to do with the thread, and NOT with the process. "Anyone can use the Magic Stitcher," she vows, "and with the greatest of ease. It's as simple as A, B, C. What's more, it's light as a feather, and wondrously speedy."

I think mothers of small fry should be warned in advance, however. Any admirer of Captain Video, the Space Cadets, or the Outer World Warriors will undoubtedly see possibilities in this clever gadget. If it is ever missing from mom's sewing machine drawer or the needlework basket, I can safely say it'll be found somewhere in a hideout, being used as a miniature rocket or jet propelled dart. In any case, it's tops!

Going places? No not just on vacation. Maybe in the matter of home decoration? Right now our art goods department is in a happy frame of mind and in the frame are needlepoint designs based on the transportation of years ago. One pretty pair of pictures shows the conestoga wagon and the stage coach. Another shows two models of the horseless carriage. Still a third set has two types of steam engine.

These sell for $3.98 a pair—the design already worked. The packet further contains enough yarn to fill in the background, and two black wooden frames, banded with gold.

At $3.98, early American house and church scenes are also offered, and at $5.98 a pair there are bouquets of petit point flowers with handsome frames of gold. Petit point birds, framed in gold with oval insets of shiny black glass, are equally appealing to both home decorators and those who give handmade objects at Christmas.

I don't mean to "needle" you about the coming yuletide . . . but after all, the joy of holiday giving would lose its point for many if they could not thread their greetings with the bright yarns and flosses that make even the simplest gifts personal and precious. Anyway needlework is fun. A girl can't concentrate on being a cross-patch if she's concentrating on working cross stitch.

Do Pyramids Foretell The Future; Wait Until August 20 And See What Happens

By John F. Sembower
Central Press Correspondent
Chicago—Here is an experiment in which anyone may join the Egyptologists of the world: Mark Aug. 20 on the calendar and see what happens.

According to those who believe that the Great Pyramid of Khufu (Cheops) at Gizeh, near Cairo, Egypt, was built by an unknown group of supermen with mysterious powers of foretelling the future, this date is one of the most portentous of the world's history.

The archaeologists at the Oriental Institute here at the University of Chicago, who are among the most avid scholars of ancient Egypt, take this colorful tradition with a grain of salt, but they admit that there are many strange unexplained things about the pyramids, particularly the Great Pyramid which is in the group near the Sphinx.

The date of Aug. 20, 1953 first began to excite interest during World War II, when those who place great store in the traditions of the pyramids hinted that it might be when the war would end. Since it ended much sooner, how what may be coming up?

This whole business of the Great Pyramid being the key to what lies ahead started in 1864, when Charles Piazzi Smith, the royal astronomer of Scotland, published a book, "Our Inheritance in the Great Pyramid."

His theory was that the ancient Egyptians who built the 482-foot monument used a special measure, which he named the "pyramidal inch." After painstaking mathematical reckoning he decided that it is the 500 millionth part of the earth's diameter.

A Frenchman, Abbott Moreus took it from there and made some truly surprising findings. He discovered that if the perimeter of the base of the pyramid is divided four times (7366 feet) by twice its height (486.112 feet) you get 3.1416, or the famous PI which confronts all beginning algebra students (the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter).

"This is an amazing mathematical coincidence, if nothing else, because so far as anyone knows, the ancient Egyptians knew nothing about the earth's diameter, or PI. Since the discovery of this anomaly, the ancient pyramid has been measured inside and out from every conceivable angle."

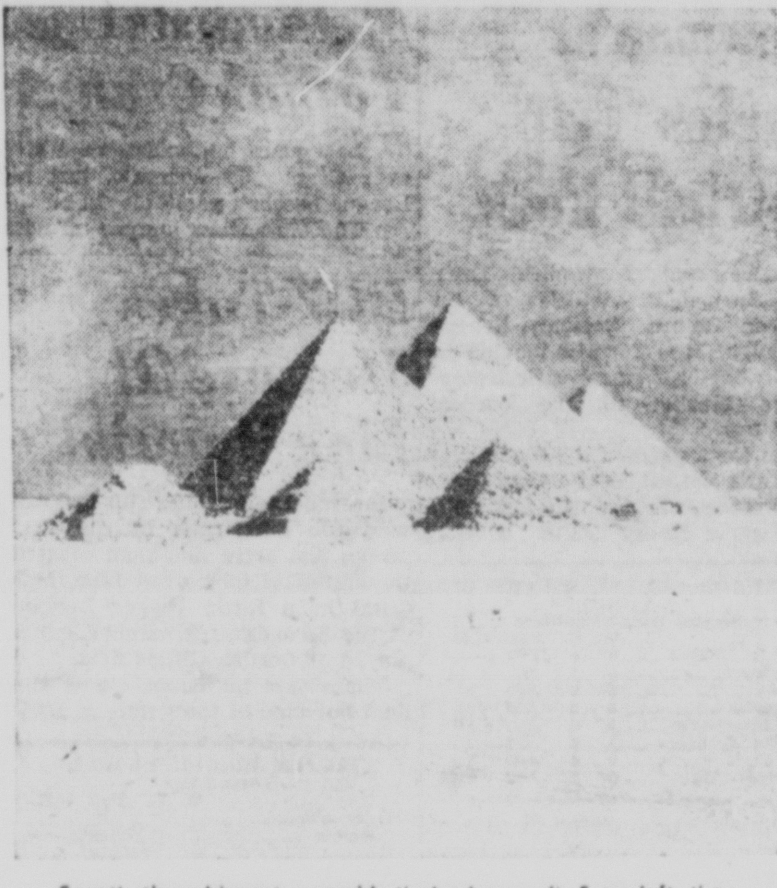

As late as last January, a free-lance archaeologist from New York, Kenneth C. Dick, examined the pyramid anew, and announced his conviction that it was not built by ancient Egyptians at all, but by some mysterious intruders.

Dick contends that the interior which has been given such great significance as to dimensions by those who believe it is the key to the infinite is different from any of Egypt's other 60-odd similar monuments. He believes that the great secret chamber has never been discovered.

Consequently, the Khufu pyramid, which is the only one of the seven wonders of the ancient world still to be seen, is becoming a wonder of the modern world as well. The chief "wonder" at the present time, however, is whether Aug. 20 really will turn out to be a special day in world history.

The way the would-be forecasters use the pyramid's measurements as oracles is like this: By comparing the intersection of the ground line projected from the first ascending passage with the axial line of the entrance passage and the descending passage, you come up with the date April 4, 1486 B. C.—the date the Israelites left Egypt.

Similarly, others have claimed to see significance in the measurements pointing to the date of the Birth of Christ, the dates of the beginning of World War I in 1914 and its ending in 1918, and many other significant happenings.

Egypt's three biggest pyramids (in background). From left, they are the Pyramids of Menkaura, Khafra and Khufu, largest of all.

One forecaster says that Aug. 20, 1953, corresponds with the date for the Battle of Armageddon "after the Holy Land is invaded by Russia and its allies." Does that mean that the Soviets might make a move upon Iran and the Middle East on that day?

A more optimistic soothsayer contends that Aug. 20, 1953 marks the ending of "a period of dissension and pestilence in the world's history."

The sunniest prediction of all comes from an Egyptologist who says that the old pyramid plainly foretells that beginning with the year 2000 A. D. the nations of the world will live in peace with one another for a thousand years!

Well, anyway, it might be worth seeing if anything notable happens on Aug. 20.

Leading Riders Appear With Lions Rodeo

Some of the foremost rodeo entertainers in America today will be featured at the Stroudsburg Speedway presentation of the Cherokee-Oklahoma attraction on August 26-28 inclusive. The rodeo is being sponsored by the Stroudsburg Lions Club and the receipts will be devoted to the charity work of the organization.

This has increased materially in the past few years and Lions urge heavy public support of the rodeo in order to finance this work for the underprivileged.

It was announced this week by the rodeo representatives that a large number of top-notch riders will perform here, including riata welders, bull-diggers and bronco busters.

Girl contestants take part in the better grade of rodeos today and Opal Ashby will be with the Cherokee-Oklahoma outfit. She rides her famed horse "Smoky" of Ekalka, Mont., the equine being known as a "trick and dancing sensation."

Magie clown and shooting acts are presented in connection with a strenuous western rodeo.

The Cherokee-Oklahoma attraction is now in its fourth year in the east and is recognized as gaining in popularity every year. Many of its participants have been seen and applauded in field attractions, on television and in Madison Square Garden.

Greene-Dreher Fair Releases Premium Lists

Newfoundland Premium lists for the 37th annual renewal of the Greene-Dreher Community Fair, to be held here August 27, 28 and 29, have been released by Henry Botjer, fair secretary.

Exhibitors, who must be residents of Greene and Palmyra Townships, Pike County, and Dreher, Sterling and Lehigh Townships, Wayne County, have the opportunity of displaying their exhibits in 16 departments, which are broken down into over 300 minor classifications.

Due to difficulties encountered in complying with the State Agricultural Department's recommendations for health precautions, no entries will be accepted in the cattle department. The possibility of the spread of brucellosis, or Bang's disease, is given as the reason for cancellation.

Other divisions of the livestock department are open, however. They include sheep and swine. Other departments include farm crops, vocational farm crops, poultry, vocational poultry, junior department, home economics department, needlework, horticulture, pastry, canned goods, jellies and preserves.

Botjer urged exhibitors to mail their entries to him on or before August 20 in order to facilitate the task of classifying entries, which are expected to run well over 1500 in number. Entries will be accepted on the grounds until 5:30 p.m., August 27, the secretary said.

President Richard McLain has announced his appointments of department heads. They include general superintendents Clayton Northrup, exhibits, and Fred McLain, grounds, and department superintendents Friend Uhl, livestock.

Lloyd Carlton, farm crops; John Strobel, vocational farm crops; Willard Newcomer, poultry; Ellen Akers, junior and home economics; Lillian Akers, needlework; Lulu Strobel, pastry; Matilda Osborne, canned goods; and Margaret Urdel, jellies and preserves.

Registration will be in charge of Connie Edwards; tags, Leon Schelbert, and the annual old folks' dinner, an annual feature of the three-day event, will be in charge of Margaret Uhl.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Football received a verbal kick-around on Monday when "Rip" Engle, Penn State grid mentor, visited with Dick Harlow, in the latter's summer home at LaAnna. Dick is a former Penn State, Harvard and Western Maryland coach and considered one of the top football brains in the country. Although nobody knows exactly what the two talked about, it is believed that Engle and Harlow went over details for the coming campaign, although Harlow is supposedly on the retired list. Both Dick and "Rip" have served on the faculty of the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association clinic held at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College each year.

George Dries, a resident of Reading and a former East Stroudsburg State Teachers College student, made his initial start in the Eastern League one to be long remembered as he pitched Wilkes-Barre to a 3-0 victory over Albany, George, a big fast-talking left hander, has had a busy season this year. The Reading resident opened the campaign with the Pittsburgh Pirates and then was optioned to New Orleans, Southern Association, and still later was sent to Charleston, of the South Atlantic League, and now he's on the Wilkes-Barre roster.

Harry Warner, one of the all-time favorites of the Stroudsburg Pennons and a native of Leeders, is hitting in the high 280s for Jacksonville, class "A" South Atlantic League. Harry recently lashed his fourth homer of the season to help Jacksonville to victory. Warner, who was a basketball and baseball star at Poccano High, has been playing third base for most of the current campaign rather than his usual first base spot. At least one manager in the Blue Mountain League is upset over the rush to open the post-season playoffs at the end of the present week. Piling all make up games into the final week of the season is too tough on the small pitching staffs, especially with the pennant race so close.

West End A. C. expects its regular third baseman, Harold Burkett, back in the lineup against Bushkill on Sunday. Burkett has been on the sidelines for the past three weeks with an ear infection. The West End A. C. club is holding a special donkey baseball game at its field in Gilbert today, with Anadimk providing the opposition. The contest will be played under a portable lighting system. All proceeds will be used by the West End contingent to cover cost of operation this summer.

At least one team in the Poccano Mountains League would like to play its regularly scheduled game early on Sunday and then follow up with a contest against last Sunday's foe as the second half of a doubleheader. Last Sunday's circuit action, except for one game, was washed down the drain by rain. All reports making the rounds indicate that this is the last year of major league baseball for the great "Satchel" Paige, who pitched several times at Gordon Giffels field, before the local ball park had its present name and when Paige was in his prime.

Danny Carnevale, one time manager of the Carbondale entry in the class "D" North Atlantic League, currently has his Jamestown entry in the class "D" Penn League 16 games in front of its nearest rival and is sure to bring home the pennant in his final season at the helm of the Jamestown club. Danny also played shortstop for the Seneca, Eastern League, organization at one time. Carnevale was formerly in the Phillies' chain ball team, is employed by the Detroit Tigers. The Camp Seneca Mountain basketball team is loaded with plenty of scoring punch and players capable of playing smooth defensive basketball.

Three athletes were among the eight draftees leaving Monroe County yesterday. Lloyd "Sonny" Woodling, Reders, is a former basketball and baseball star at Poccano High and pitched for two years at ESSTC. Woodling also had two seasons of pro experience in the Brooklyn Dodgers system. Maurice Paynter and Marty Kersch played basketball and baseball at Chestnut Hill and Polk High schools respectively. Is a Booster Club being formed in East Stroudsburg to further the cause of high school athletics?

Ray Walters, Chipperfield Drive, put his paper on the roof of both dugouts at the Stroudsburg Little League field. A local umpire will work a softball game at Poccano Highlands camp next Tuesday, when the area camp holds a special sports day. The Keystone Amateur Softball Association will hold its state tournament at Lancaster beginning Friday, August 28 and not at Altoona on Friday, August 21 as formerly announced. The Eagles will represent Monroe County in the class "B" division.

John Wilson, executive secretary of the Monroe County YMCA and one of the key figures behind the Stroudsburg Little League, is en route to his home with a back injury.

Martins Creek Gains Lead In Blue Mountain League

Johnsonville Fails To Halt Upward Surge

Martins Creek vaulted back into first place in the Blue Mountain League last night with an 11-1 victory over lowly Johnsonville, here on the winning aggregation's home grounds.

The win was the 10th straight and 18th in the last 21 trips to bat for the Martins Creek club. The leader has moved from last place to its present position atop the standings.

Last night's encounter was no contest after the power-packed Martins Creek club picked up four runs in the bottom of the third to stretch its lead to 5-0 at that point, having scored a singleton in the first frame.

Three pitchers in the fourth and the same number in the fifth held the contest for the winning aggregation.

Tom Collins homered for Martins Creek in his initial time at bat in the Blue Mountain League.

Bob Weiss, veteran right hander, ran his record to nine wins and only one defeat as he stopped Johnsonville while receiving perfect support from his mates.

Martins Creek now sports a record of 18 wins and six setbacks, while Johnsonville is rolling along on a mark of 17 wins and six defeats, one-half game off the pace. Johnsonville has a chance to move in front today as it meets fourth place Portland, while Martins Creek tangles with fifth place Poccano A.C. at Martins Creek.

Senators Crush Indians, 11-0

Washington (AP) — Bob Porterfield pitched his second successive shutout and his seventh of the season last night as Washington routed Cleveland 11-0, on an outburst of 17 hits. The defeat dropped the third-place Indians 8 1/2 games back of the league-leading Yankees as Porterfield held them to six hits.

Porterfield, who posted his 12th win, also injected two doubles in the Senators' assault. Dave Hoskins, the loser, yielded 13 of the blows before being yanked in the seventh inning.

Sixth Straight
The game marked the sixth straight shutout in which Washington has been involved, with the Senators winning three.

Pompeo Davalillo, rookie Venezuelan shortstop starting his first major league game, Pete Runnels and Mickey Vernon each contributed three hits to the Senators' attack. Every Washington player got at least one hit.

The Senators, scoreless for 23 innings, clipped Hoskins for two runs in the second inning, added four in the fifth inning and chased him in a two-run seventh inning. Cleveland — 000 000 000 — 0-4 Washington — 020 050 235 — 11-0

Milwaukee Rallies To Gain Important Verdict Over Dodgers As Cooper Delivers In Pinch, 5-3

Milwaukee, (AP) — Walker Cooper lashed a pinch single over second base behind back-to-back doubles by Joe Adcock and Del Crandall in the eighth inning yesterday as the Milwaukee Braves snapped a six-game home losing streak to defeat Brooklyn, 5-3, before 30,711 fans, the largest week-day afternoon crowd of the year.

Dodger starter Carl Erskine had a shutout going until the seventh when a two-base error by "Junior" Gilliam on pinchhitter Harry Hank's hard hit grounder scored Crandall and Jack Dittmer.

Adcock and Crandall doubled successively to chase Erskine as the eighth opened and Erv

Palica relieved. Sid Gordon lined out and Dittmer was walked intentionally, but Cooper's sharp single sent Crandall home to put the Braves ahead. Warren Spahn, running for Cooper, was hit by Billy Bruton's grounder, but Sibby Sisti walked to fill the bases and a pass to Eddie Mathews forced in the cushion run.

Gil Hodges drove in the first two Brooklyn runs on fly balls to center in the first and fifth innings, scoring Gilliam each time. The final Dodger tally was on Carl Erskine's fifth home run into the leftfield bleachers in the sixth.

Penn-Stroud Sports In Final Frame To Decision Bank, 10-9

Four runs in the home half of the sixth and final inning enabled Penn-Stroud Hotel to win over the First National Bank, 10-9, in a Stroudsburg Little League baseball encounter on the circuit's official field last night.

Penn-Stroud, trailing by a 9-6 count going into the final round, scored all of its runs with two outs, after leading briefly by a 1-0 count at the end of the second stanza, 3-2 at the end of the third and 6-5 going into the fifth inning.

The National Bank exploded for four runs in the fifth and for 2 1/2 more two full innings appeared to have the game in the bag.

Tonnie Bergman powered in the fourth inning with two nates on base for the losing club.

Golf Professionals Set 275 As Magic Number In World Championship Tourney In Chicago

Chicago, (AP)—Tournament-wise pros, regrouping for a mass assault on par, yesterday set 275 as the magic number in the Tam O'Shanter golf jackpot this weekend.

They said that figure, 13 strokes under par for 72 holes of pressure shooting, should be good enough to win the $25,000 bonanza of the "world championship" starting today.

The total purse in the men's pro field of 83 starters is $75,000, and the $25,000 top prize is the richest payoff in golf. Second place is worth $10,000, third $5,000 and the list scales down to $200 for 60th.

Women

In the $12,000 world meet for women pros, $3,000 goes to the champion, $1,600 to the runnerup and $1,000 to third. This list is graded down to $370 for 12th.

In addition to the men and women pro divisions, there are world championships for men and women amateurs.

All four divisions run concurrently. Except for the large men's pro field, each of the other tournaments has 12 handpicked contestants.

Julius Boros is defending champion of the world men's pro division, winning the 1952 crown in an 18-hole playoff with Gary Middlecott after each had finished 72 holes in 276. Boros won the extra round 68 to 70.

Frank Stranahan will be shooting for his fourth straight world amateur title, while Betty Jameson will attempt to defend her crown in the women's pro section. Mary Villegas will not be on hand to defend her title in the women's amateur.

Unlike the past, a playoff, if needed this time, will be on a "sudden death" basis.

Giardello Draws Suspension

Philadelphia, (AP)—Middleweight contender Joey Giardello drew what amounted to a 90-day suspension from the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission yesterday, just 24 hours after demanding a postponement of his scheduled fight with "Kid" Gavilan.

The bout, originally carded for Monday night at Connie Mack Stadium, has been cancelled by Promoter Herman Taylor. Giardello reported he had injured an elbow in training and sought a delay of a week or more.

Hearing

Frank Wiener, newly appointed to the commission, held a brief hearing yesterday and announced afterward that Giardello has been placed on the "ill and unavailable" list for 90 days, or until he fulfills his obligation to Taylor or is released by the promoter.

Wiener, in announcing his decision, called attention to the fact that Giardello has requested postponements of several other fights this year. Joey had told the commission that he was willing, personally, to go through with the fight that his managers would not permit it.

Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club Notified Of Selection As Winner Of 1953 Rush Award

Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg was officially notified at yesterday's meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel that the club had been selected as the Monroe County lay organization to receive the Benjamin Rush award for 1953.

Dr. C. W. Dupee, vice president of the club, who presided in the absence of President Parke W. Kunkle, read the letter from Dr. Allen W. Cowley, chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the Medical Society of Pennsylvania, which makes the award.

Clifford R. Gillam, president and manager of the Buck Hill Falls Assn., received the individual lay award.

Both the local winners were nominated by the Monroe County Medical Society. The Kiwanis Club will be presented with a suitably inscribed plaque at the meeting Aug. 19 by Dr. Evan C. Reese, chairman Public Relation Committee of the local medical society.

The State Benjamin Rush award will be presented to T. Elwood Sones, of Centre County, while the state county honor goes to the committee of five (Berwick Blood Procurement Plan) of Columbia County.

The awards are in recognition of lay contributions to better health.

Two new members were welcomed into the local club; Eric Monaghan, chemical engineer, Cresco B. D. I., and Elwood C. German, chief accountant, Waring Enterprises, Shawnee-on-Deaware.

Robert R. Hellman announced arrangements for the dance for Kiwanians and ladies and friends at the Campus, Tushikill, Friday, Aug. 21, at 9:30 p. m. Indications point to a good turnout, he said.

Vice President Dupee announced that Ben Josephson will sponsor an Inter-service club outing and dinner at Camp Taminent the latter part of Labor Day week. There were assurances of at least 30 persons representing the Kiwanis Club. A similar event last summer was largely attended.

Eugene H. Martin, president of the Little Bigger Baseball League, said members of the team will be taken to New York City Friday to witness the Yanks-White Sox big league game. They will leave at 7:30 a. m. The sponsors of the team are making the trip possible.

A delegation of 10 or 12 members of the club will leave the Penn-Stroud hotel at noon today to participate in golf competition sponsored by the Bethlehem club in that city this afternoon.

Seven local Kiwanians competed at a Scranton club meet at Lake Winola last Wednesday. Robert Weidlich was low scorer with a 74 on the par 72 course. Claude C. Cramer won the door prize.

The film, "Skillfully Yours", taken during the Olympic preparations at Sun Valley, was shown. Ray Price Jr. was program chairman and Henry Kresge operated the projector.

Visiting Kiwanians welcomed were Harold O. Bates, Elizabeth, N. J., and Earl Evans, Bethlehem.

A. B. Wyckoff

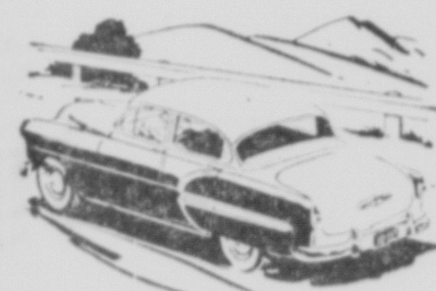

This demonstration showed me the way to a better deal!

I'd been planning to buy a higher-priced car until I found out all Chevrolet offered—and how much I could save!

You're "sitting pretty" behind the wheel
Take this Bel Air model. First thing you'll notice is the rich-looking upholstery and appointments and roomy, comfortable seats. Just turn the ignition key to start the engine and you're ready to go.

You get more power on less gas
Here's all the power and performance you could ever ask for. And along with it comes the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history! That's because of Chevrolet's two great high-compression engines.

You can see all around

You look out and down at the road through a wide, curved, one-piece windshield. The panoramic rear window and big side windows provide a clear view in all directions.

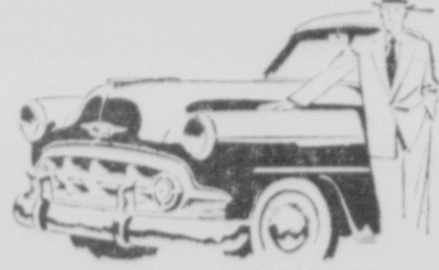

Biggest brakes for smoother, easier stops

An easy nudge on the brake pedal brings smooth, positive response—right now! Chevrolet brakes are the largest in the low-price field—extra large for extra stopping power.

It's heavier for better roadability

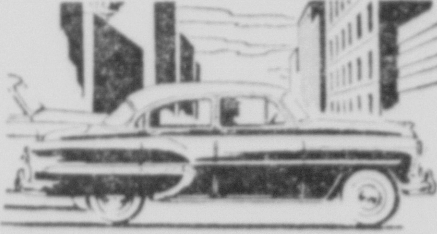

You're in for a pleasant surprise at the smooth, steady ride. One reason is that, model for model, Chevrolet will weigh up to 200 pounds more than other low-priced cars.

And it's the lowest-priced line

A demonstration will show you that Chevrolet offers more in the lowest-priced line in the low-price field.

*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide*

Finer performance on less gas. That's what you get with the new Powerglide. There's no more advanced automatic transmission at any price.

Even Power Steering, if you want it

You ought to try Power Steering to see how easy driving can be. You can spin the wheel with one finger! It's optional, of course, at extra cost, and available on all models.

Let us demonstrate all the advantages of buying a Chevrolet now!
